Synthetic Turf Facts

Weather

Synthetic turf can easily take direct sunlight without damage providing that there is no strong reflection or sun magnification. Synthetic turf comes in wide variety of looks and various materials that are engineered for virtually all types of use. Many are used for landscapes, putting greens, pet turf and sports fields. The turf does not retain heat in the shade or darkness.

Maintenance of Synthetic Turf

Turf should be rinsed and groomed periodically. The frequency of cleaning should be determined by the activity level. For example, if your turf is subject to animals or pets it should be rinsed more often. For excessive debris or leaf clean up, we suggest the use of a power blower. To properly clean use a stiff bristle broom or rake to groom the fibers. This will help prevent matting and maintain the appearance. If the turf is not groomed regularly, we suggest you have it groomed professionally.

Every two to three years an extensive maintenance service should be performed. This requires installing additional sand, use of a power broom and turf inspection for heavy traffic areas.

Cleaning turf can be easy, simply rinse with water as needed. With pets pick up solid waste and any residue can be sprayed clean.
